IS YOUR PAST LIFE AFFECTING YOUR PERSONALITY?

A woman keeps herself fat because she was tortured to death for being too beautiful in a past life . . . a wimpy salesman reveals he was a virtual slave in a 12th-century lifetime . . . another woman's fear of heights is the result of a plunge that snuffed out a past life.

Surprising new research in regressive hypnosis says the answer may be yes!

EXPERT Dr. Bruce Goldberg is highly regarded in the field of hypnotic regression.

These examples show how events in a person's past life can affect their present-day personality, said Dr. Bruce Goldberg, a highly regarded expert on hypnotic regression — the recollection of past lives while under hypnosis.

Here are some of his case histories:

1 "A woman in her mid-20s came to me with a weight problem. She was bright and had a very pretty face, but kept herself 60 pounds overweight," said Dr. Goldberg, author of Past Lives — Future Lives.

"Incredibly, she told me she was afraid to be thin. She said, 'I'm convinced that if I do get thin, somehow I'll be killed.'

"Under hypnosis I took her back into her past — to France in the 1700s, where she was the youngest of seven sisters whose parents had died.

"She was slim and beautiful, but her sisters were overweight and unattractive. The sisters tortured her. And one day, when she was about 17, they tortured her so badly she died.

"She learned in that past life that being attractive leads to pain. I convinced her the past was not destined to repeat itself. After the therapy, she dropped the weight and hasn't put it back on."

2 Another fascinating case involved a salesman who complained that he was dominated by everyone — his mother, his wife, his customers and even his children.

"Under hypnosis, he revealed a chilling past life," said Dr. Goldberg.

"The year was 1132. His name was Thayer and he lived in Bavaria. He was an apprentice to a master craftsman named Gustave, who treated him like a slave, and even chained him under the table to eat his meals.

"Thayer was whipped and beaten mercilessly, sexually abused, humiliated and dominated at every opportunity.

"One day Thayer rebelled, and fought with Gustave who stabbed him to death.

"Once I told the salesman what the past showed — and that he had nothing to fear in the present — he began building a better image of himself so people wouldn't walk all over him."

3 Dr. Goldberg said another woman came to him because she was terrified of heights. She couldn't ride an elevator and a trip to a two-story building required anti-nausea pills.

Through hypnosis and regression into a past life she found the root of her fear in a horrifying fall off a cliff, he said.

"She was a boy, about 3, who lived in Switzerland. One day, while showing off for her brother, she slipped and fell.

"She gave a vivid description of the plunge, including the eerie sound of the wind rushing past her head, and the terrible impact.

"After the hypnosis, I explained what had happened and why the woman was so fearful now. Her fears vanished.

"I firmly believe many of the emotional problems people have today stem from problems or experiences in previous lives."

Man arrested for harassing ex-wife by sending her 637 dirty postcards!

ROME, Italy — Bank employee Domenico Torlotti was arrested and charged with harassing his former wife after he went on vacation to France — and mailed her 637 dirty postcards!

The 37-year-old man sent ex-wife Daniela sexually explicit postcards featuring nude men and women, pictures of amorous couples, close-ups of nude statuary and other shocking photos.

At one point more than 50 cards were arriving at her apartment daily, police say.

MODEL DAD KILLS 5-YEAR-OLD TWINS WITH SLEDGEHAMMER

CLINTON, Pa. — By all accounts, Vincent Spik was a loving and devoted dad to his 5-year-old twins — until the nightmarish day he took a 5-pound sledgehammer and bashed their little brains in.

. . . over missing Power Ranger mask!

"I just lost it," Spik, 37, told cops, who charged him with two counts of homicide.

The grief-stricken dad said twins Emily and Bobby were slow getting dressed to go to a day care center and he was running late for work on the day of the tragedy.

He was frustrated because he could find only one of the two Power Ranger masks the kids wanted to take with them, cops said.

Spik went to the basement looking for the other Power Ranger mask and, when he couldn't find it, he grabbed the sledgehammer, police said.

That's when something "snapped" in the brain of the hard-working electrician and family man, according to police.

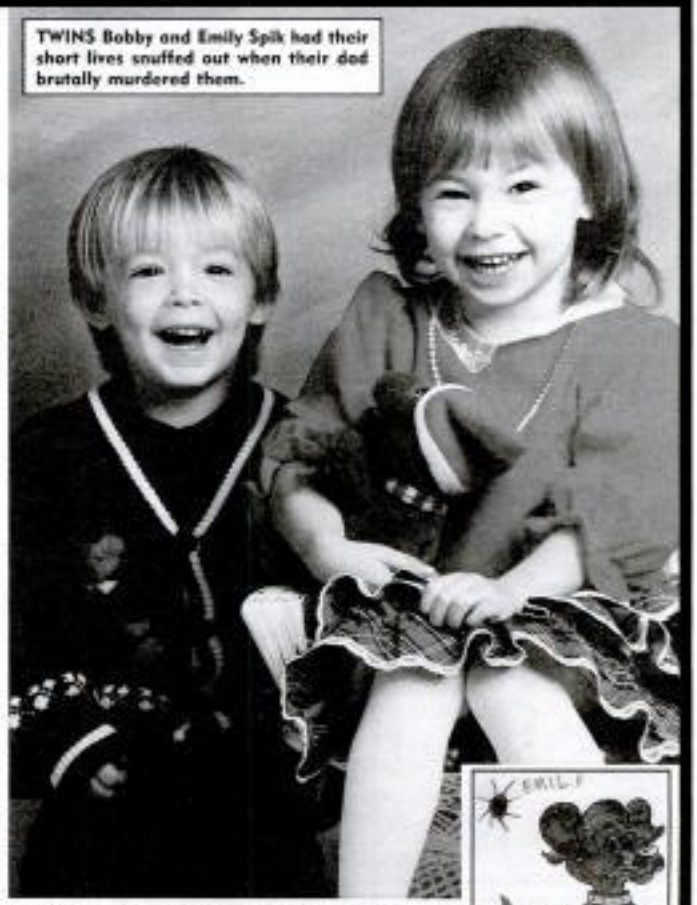
Cops said the berserk father smashed little Emily twice in the face with the hammer while she knelt by the TV.

Then he bludgeoned Bobby twice in the back of the head, cops said.

It was 8:18 a.m. when Spik called police and said calmly, "I've just killed my children."

By JACK ALEXANDER
Weekly World News

Tiny Emily was lying dead on the floor, still clutching her stuffed horse, when police arrived. Barely alive, Bobby was flown to a Pittsburgh hospital, where he died four hours later. When told that her children had been brutally murdered, mother Susan Spik, 35, collapsed at the bank where she works and had to be hospitalized.



TWINS Bobby and Emily Spik had their short lives snuffed out when their dad brutally murdered them.

Stunned neighbors on the quiet, tree-lined street in this Pittsburgh suburb said the Spiks were very caring parents who tried for 11 years to have children before they were blessed with the birth of the twins. "They were always with their kids. The kids didn't straggle off," said neighbor John Kish.

The doting dad took the twins to the day care center every morning from the time they were infants, and their mother picked them up in the evening.

Marie Menegon, owner of the Teddy Bear Village Day Care Center, said little Emily loved kittens and was always drawing pictures of cats. Bobby "was our little helper," she sobbed. "Mr. Spik would take them to their room here at the center, get down on the floor and help them off with their coats," she said.

"He always gave them a kiss and before leaving, he would say, 'I love you. Have a good day.' That's why this is such a nightmare." Spik, who has no previous criminal record, has been committed to Mayview State Hospital for a 90-day psychiatric evaluation. His lawyers said he is unable to assist them in his defense.

He "cries uncontrollably" every time he tries to talk about it, the lawyers say.

BUDDING artist Emily loved to draw and color. This was her last work of art.

SICK COMPUTER PROGRAM GIVES YOU A PERSONAL RECIPE FOR SUICIDE!

L.I.S.A., the new suicide machine, lets you custom design your very own death cocktail.

By RANDY JEFFRIES
Weekly World News

DENVER, Colo. — Assisted-suicide doctors like Jack Kevorkian may soon be obsolete, thanks to a new computer program that helps terminally ill people kill themselves with a minimum of pain and suffering!

The program, known as the Life Interruption Serum Assembler (or L.I.S.A.), can configure an individualized death cocktail — a combination of toxic drugs — based on a person's weight, age, physical condition and other data.

Then the person either buys the drugs or, if he's too ill, has a concerned loved one buy them for him.

"Most of the pain-killers, sleep-inducing medicines and poisons recommended are available over-the-counter at any American drugstore or pharmacy," said Swiss scientist Dr. Lars Obbermann, who designed the L.I.S.A. Dr. Obbermann is in the United States hoping to get the mercy-killing system on the market here.

Some critics say the program has no value because anyone who wants to kill himself can do it with rat poison or drain cleaner. But Dr. Obbermann says these observations lack sensitivity.

"How would you like to die by drinking drain cleaner, arsenic or rubbing alcohol?" he asked reporters.

"The L.I.S.A. doesn't just tell people how to kill themselves. It informs them about how to do it with maximum effectiveness and a minimum of pain.

"Too much of these toxic chemicals will cause the patients' stomach to convulse, making them vomit before the drugs get into the system. Too low a dosage won't work.

"The would-be suicide enters his or her weight, age, state of health and other important information into the computer.

"Then, based on these criteria, the system formulates a perfect 'cocktail' — the exact combination of drugs and the amounts — that will first put the patient into a deep sleep, then gently shut down his life functions."

The L.I.S.A. is legal in Switzerland and has already been used 14 times. But Dr. Obbermann faces an uphill battle getting it onto the American market. "Americans have some antiquated ideas about mercy killing," said Dr. Obbermann.

"But I hope I can open their minds."

Personality and handwriting really ARE linked

. . . says new research!

By JUNE SAWYER
Weekly World News

You can improve your personality by changing your handwriting, says a noted graphologist.

"Your handwriting reveals the weaknesses in your personality. Once you are aware of your bad traits, you can improve them by concentrating on changing your handwriting," Shirl Solomon explained.

Mrs. Solomon, author of How to Really Know Yourself Through Your Handwriting, said graphology — the study of handwriting — is a tool that can help people successfully deal with their personalities. For those who want to improve their personalities by improving their handwriting, Mrs. Solomon has these tips:

● If you start sentences with small first letters, you are probably timid about beginning new projects. Begin strong by making the first letters larger. This will subconsciously improving your ambition.

● If you use dashes frequently, you're probably overly concerned with what people think. Dashes are the same as words that grope, or hedge the subject. Replace them with abrupt periods.

● If your capital "I" is flowery it may indicate insecurity and a need for attention from others. Write your "I" plainly. This shows you are open and direct and have no great hang-ups.

● If the word "I" is very small in comparison with the other letters, you probably have a weak self-image and like to hide in crowds of people. Enlarge the "I," increase the space inside the loop, and you're more apt to rise above the masses.

● If the final flourish of your signature turns back and crosses out part of your name, you have negative feelings about yourself. Leave the last stroke where it is. This helps make your personality more open.

FARMER JAILED FOR FEEDING PIGS GARBAGE!

KOPING, Sweden — Flabbergasted farmer Carl Lindius was jailed for animal abuse — because he fed his pigs garbage.

"It's crazy. Hogs have been eating garbage since time began," said Lindius, who served five days in the hoosegow. "My pigs are fat and sassy."

Lindius was convicted of violating the country's strict animal-rights laws by failing to feed his 13 oinkers a balanced diet.

Study reveals . . .

Want your kid to be a success? Give him a weird name!

By JUNE SAWYER
Weekly World News

The name you give your child may influence his character, the way others view him — and even how successful he is later in life, experts say.

Here's a round-up of research that proves there's more in a name than we generally believe:

● Unusual names are a plus. A college study of 1,200 students showed that men with common names suffered more often from guilt, inferiority and timidity. There was speculation that those with uncommon names thought of themselves as unique and they felt more important than those with common monikers.

The wrong name could wreck your child's life!

● People judge others by their names. One study gave 200 subjects a speaker's name, qualifications and background. Half were given the name Adam Williams, while the other half were given the name Myron Williams. The result:

The subjects tended to view Adam Williams as generally more active, masculine, dominating, competitive, cold and responsible than the same person identified as Myron Williams.

In an Ohio University study, students rated 25 names of men on the basis of masculinity. Judged least masculine were the names Courtney, Inness, Shelley and Carrol; most macho were Gus, Bart, Adam and Mac.

● Names effect character. Names are closely bound to the development of personality, one specialist reports. For example, a man named McCloud had trouble establishing "warm" relationships with others and suffered from coldness in his hands and feet.

● Last names often influence choice of profession. According to a fascinating study by a State University of New York psychologist, "a person's surname is frequently related to his occupation or interests." He listed the surnames of over 150 people who distinguished themselves in fields corresponding to their names — for example, tennis champion Margaret Court and a specialist in abnormal psychology named Dr. Strange.

WORLD'S HOTTEST CHILI!

HOT DAMN!

By RICK TRACY
Weekly World News

LUBBOCK, Texas — Happy-go-lucky Ryan "Rusty" Childs nearly set his insides on fire trying to get his name in the Guinness Book of World Records — by eating the world's hottest chili.

Rusty severely burned his throat and stomach after adding a cup of the world's hottest spice — Red "Savina" Habanero pepper — to a pot of chili he prepared at a cookoff near here.

"Hot damn. I'm on fire," screamed the 22-year-old ranch hand after swallowing a spoonful of his fiery concoction. "Oh God, I can't stand it."

Friends rushed Rusty to a nearby medical clinic where he was treated for severe burns and given painkillers.

'He did a stupid thing . . . his throat & stomach looked like he swallowed a ball of fire,' emergency room doctor said!

"He did a very stupid thing," said a doctor.

"His throat and the lining of his stomach looked as if he had swallowed a ball of fire."

Rusty is expected to recover but he'll be sipping fluids and eating foods out of a blender for weeks to come.

SPEECHLESS: Recovering Rusty Childs will be sipping fluids and eating bland foods for weeks to come.

The redheaded mechanic obviously didn't know much about spices in his foolish attempt at international fame. And he didn't know much about the Guinness book.

Guinness has no category that honors a person for eating the world's hottest chili. Rusty's ordeal was all in vain.

The Guinness Book of World Records, however, says Red "Savina" Habanero pepper is the world's hottest spice. A single gram will produce detectable heat in 1,272 pounds of bland sauce.

Rusty also spiced up his scorching hot chili with Tabasco, El Yucateco Habanero (green), Dave's Insanity sauce and the infamous Mad Dog Inferno sauce — all among the hottest spices on Earth.

"I think I'll stick to six-packs, shootin' pool and things I know about from now on," Rusty whispered. "I must have been crazy to do what I did."

POOR NUTRITION CAN DRIVE YOU CRAZY!

That's the word from top Canadian psychiatrist Dr. Abram Hoffer, a pioneer in the use of vitamins and nutrients in treating mental illness. He says nine out of 10 people being treated for mental problems are actually suffering from poor diets.

By NORMA BURT
Weekly World News

"Most psychiatrists have not recognized the fact that millions of emotionally disturbed people are actually . . . been wiped out of modern society," said Dr. Abram Hoffer.

"Early stages of these diseases can cause symptoms of depression, anxiety, irritability, great fatigue and disorientation — the bread and butter sucrose and other worthless foods, but are treated psychiatrically instead of nutritionally.

"Once nutritional factors in emotional problems are fully understood, nine out of 10 people now being treated by psychiatrists will be able to be cured by their family doctors. In other words, it would take one-tenth as many psychiatrists as we have today and patients a year who have been diagnosed by other doctors as psychotic.

He said only 10 percent of these patients actually need psychiatric counseling.

"The standard procedure with the majority of psychiatrists is to put their patients on the couch and try to encourage memories of traumas. Many people have been kept in psychotherapy for years with-ed more than 2,500 schizophrenics. "Of the patients who have stayed with the program of nutritional changes that I outline, 90 percent are recovered today.

"I foresee the day when a patient suffering from almost any kind of mental problem will be sent to a biochemical laboratory where his body fluids and tissue will be examined.

Serena Sabak, the World's Sexiest Psychic, has agreed to transmit her amazing powers of healing and good fortune to people across America — and all you have to do is sit on the magical photograph she has supplied for you!

The amazing event will take place Saturday, August 8, 1998, at precisely noon Eastern Daylight Time.

To participate, just cut out the life-size photograph of Serena's rear end on the next page, then save it until August 8. At exactly noon on that day, place the page on the floor or on a chair, where you can comfortably sit on it. Serena will be sitting on the photograph in her home and transmitting an incredible wave of health, wealth and happiness from coast to coast for a full five minutes.

Serena performed a similar event once before, using a photograph of her hands to transmit her powers in the form of a mass healing.

For weeks after that special day, the Weekly World News office was flooded with thousands of letters of gratitude. People with a staggering variety of illnesses — including heart disease, arthritis, colds, back pain, toothaches and even cancer — wrote to say how they had been healed.

Serena said that since her rear end has a slightly larger surface area than her hands, she believes she can transmit even more psychic power this time. The fact that there is a

NEW 'ANTI-VIAGRA' PILL COOLS DOWN SEX-CRAZED GUYS

By GEORGE SANFORD / Weekly World News

PRINCETON, N.J. — Top U.S. drug companies are competing to be the first to come out with a new "Anti-Viagra" pill — that cools down oversexed guys who drive their mates crazy!

The amazing miracle drug turns men who are insatiable tigers between the sheets into tame bedroom pussy cats, experts say.

"This medication puts the brakes on aggressive male sexual behavior," declared Dr. Paul Konstantas, who has been leading a major study of the drug, called briacin.

"It will be a godsend to women whose husbands are too sexually demanding."

Different versions of the drug have been tested successfully in clinical trials at leading universities, conducted by several pharmaceutical companies, which are now racing to win FDA approval.

Tens of thousands of American couples will benefit from the pill, which should be available by prescription in 1999, said Dr. Konstantas.

"Many marriages are destroyed because the husband has an overly strong sex drive," he explained. "Typically, these men are biologically incapable of keeping their marriage vows and their infidelity leads to a breakup.

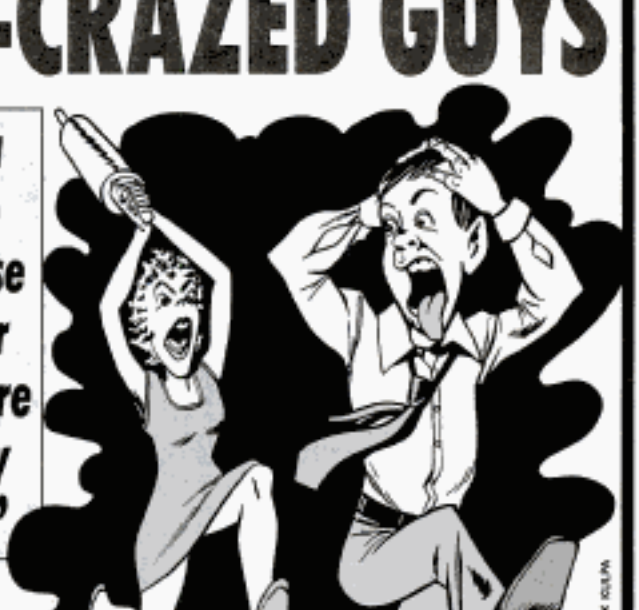
"When the men do remain faithful, it is an even more painful experience for their wives. They treat them as sex objects, selfishly demanding to satisfy their lust repeatedly during the course of a day. Inevitably, the wives become bitter and end the marriage."

Unlike depo-provera, the drug used to "chemically castrate" child molesters, the new pill acts safely to lower levels of testosterone, the male hormone.

"It doesn't completely eliminate the sex drive, but it moderates it, making it possible for a man to make responsible choices when it comes to lovemaking," said Dr. Konstantas.

SPECIALIST Dr. Paul Konstantas.

'It will be a godsend to women whose husbands or boyfriends are too sexually demanding'



Konstantas has been overwhelmed by requests for information about the new drug, which one manufacturer hopes to market under the brand name Stopex.

"For the first time in years I feel as if there is hope for our marriage," said a 40-year-old woman whose husband began taking the magic pill six months ago.

"Before, my husband used to insist that we have sex five times a day, for an hour or more at a time. Afterward I would feel dirty and used. Now he never even mentions sex unless I tap him on the shoulder in the morning and tell him I'm interested in fooling around."

Her mate agrees, saying that having his sex drive reduced has been a relief. Said the 43-year-old man: "I feel as if I've been allowed to finally get off a wild horse after a long, bumpy ride."

Rats eat formula for arthritis cure!

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Researchers claim to have developed a powerful new medicine that gives instant relief to arthritis sufferers. But they'll be late in presenting it to the world — because a group of laboratory rats ate the formula!

Chemist Lars Knudsen and his staff slaved for more than a year perfecting the medicine in a lab, keeping detailed notes and storing them in a cabinet on the premises.

Too late, they realized some white rats, penned on the other side of the wall, had chewed their way through and eaten the notes.

CARSON CITY. — Nevada's legal brothels are seeing a big boom in business — thanks to Viagra!

Happy hookers say many oldsters have renewed their sexual prowess with the pill — and they are flocking to the cathouses in droves.

Many of the hot-to-trot seniors are so pumped up on the wonder drug that they even shell out extra bucks for additional time when their sessions run out.

Q Rosie Perez is a fine actress, but that fingernails-raking-on-a-blackboard voice of hers really drives me up the wall. Hasn't she ever considered going to a voice coach, like other performers?
— Dina R., Roanoke Rapids, N.C.

A Rosie's high-pitched, nasal voice is the result of a speech impediment — and it's taken years of work to make it as easy on the ears as it is now! "My voice was even shriekier than it is now, if you can imagine," reveals the White Men Can't Jump star. "People don't realize how hard I've worked to lower my octave."

If her super-shrieky voice didn't earn Rosie enough teasing as a child, she had another feature that made her stand out. "By the fifth grade I was wearing a 34C bra, but I was only 4-foot-9," she says. "I looked like this midget with boobs."

"I LOOKED like a midget with boobs," says actress Rosie Perez about life as a fifth-grader.

Q Everyone knows that starlet Drew Barrymore went through a wild period in her teen years, during which she experimented with drugs. But is it true that she also tried out lesbian sex?
— Emma B., Bridgewater, N.Y.

A Blonde cutie Drew, 23, admits to having had her share of gay flings, but says they are a thing of the past. "I've always been bisexual, although I haven't been with a woman in three years," says the reformed Hollywood bad girl. She says she is now "very much in love" with her actor boyfriend Luke Wilson, who co-stars with her in the movie Home Fries. "I like having him with me and having someone I care about — I never thought that way before."

NO LESBIAN LOVERS IN THREE YEARS: Drew Barrymore.

Q Mel Gibson is my favorite Hollywood actor. What did the sexy superstar do for a living before he hit it big?
— Janet L., Portsmouth, Ohio

A While still a struggling young actor, Mel worked a variety of odd jobs — including dressing up as a rabbit to lure customers into a fast food restaurant! That gig didn't last too long, however. Mel was axed after he got ticked off at an annoying teenager and decked the guy while still in his oversize bunny costume. "He was pulling on my ears and tail, so I socked him in the mouth," the star admits.

Q Please settle this argument my brother and I are having. He insists that former President Jimmy Carter has been knighted. I say nothing like that ever happened. Who's right? P.S: There's $10 riding on this.
— Jeff D., Augusta, Ga.

A You owe your brother $10, because the peanut-farmer-turned-president is now Sir Jimmy — at least in the African country of Mali. President Alpha Konare recently bestowed the rare honor on the former Commander in Chief, in recognition of his work battling the dreaded Guinea worm disease. Thanks to a program of education and simple precautions initiated by Carter, the debilitating parasitic illness — which plagued Africa for nearly 3,000 years — has been virtually wiped out.

Q I'm a big fan of singer/actress Brandy Norwood, star of TV's Moesha. I'd love to see her branch out into movies. Does she have any plans to appear on the big screen soon?
— Tina B., Detroit, Mich.

A You're in luck! The wholesome 19-year-old pop star will be making a stab at a film career by starring in a blood-and-guts slasher movie.

Brandy is set to make her screen debut in the upcoming flick I Still Know, a sequel to last year's slice 'n' dice teen thriller, I Know What You Did Last Summer.

Q Denzel Washington certainly looked weird sporting an old-fashioned Afro in his new movie, He Got Game.
How did he feel about wearing the out-of-date 'do?
— Gina D., Holland, Mich.

A The star, who hadn't grown an Afro in 20 years, said wearing the classic '70s hairdo was a blast from the past.

"It really took me back in time. And it made it easy for me to go out in public," he told People magazine.

How to spend quality time with your kids — even if you work 18 hours a day!

Working parents can still spend lots of quality time with their children simply by following these easy tips from famed pediatrician T. Berry Brazelton.

"More and more families have both parents working, which means that the time spent with children becomes more important than ever," said Dr. Brazelton, author of several bestselling books on child rearing.

"The thing to remember is that the pressures of having both a job and a family need not make you feel guilty about your children."

moments at home reconnecting with your family. Gather your children on a couch or rocking chair. Let them feel your presence and concern.

Within moments, your children will want to get back to their games, but those few seconds of bonding reminds them you care.

game, sit and color, or take a walk around the block.

• Take your youngsters along on errands and let them help with chores. If you're doing the laundry, for example, teach your child to load the washer or pour in the soap. Children love to impress their parents.

• Prepare for the next morning before going to bed. For example, lay out your children's clothes and plan out breakfast.

This will help take the frenzy out of your morning routine, and allow you to spend more meaningful time with your kids.

• Make bedtime the final quality time of the day. Turn going to bed into something special.

Use that time to chat about plans for the following day. Or read a story as your child drifts off.

"It's much better to end the day with a smile, a kiss and a hug than an argument," said Dr. Brazelton. "The last

WE CUT UP OUR BABY AND PUT HER IN A BLENDER ... then cooked the pieces in a frying pan!

By LESKIE PINSON / Weekly World News

In one of the most gruesome murders in U.S. history, cops say a Chicago couple dismembered their 16-month-old daughter — and chopped her up in a blender!

Joan Tribblet and Everett Johnson are accused of killing helpless Onowanique Tribblet, just because they were frustrated by her crying.

Then, in a coldhearted attempt to cover up the murder, they chopped up her little body and soaked parts of it in battery acid, police say.

The parts that weren't dissolved in the acid were fried in a pan or chopped up in a blender that the couple borrowed from a neighbor.

"There were portions that had been cooked up that Johnson then basically distributed at another location so that dogs and vermin would eat the remains," said Prosecutor Thomas Epach.

Cook County Judge William Wise was stunned by the horrific crime and shook his head in disbelief as he denied bail to the couple. They could both get the death penalty.

In another stunning twist, Miss Tribblet, 27, claims she is pregnant with another baby. The couple already has three other children, who are living with an aunt.

The baby's death went undiscovered for nearly six months before Miss Tribblet's mother filed a missing-persons report. She had not seen Onowanique for a long time and was getting conflicting stories when she asked where the child was.

When cops confronted the couple, they reportedly broke down and confessed.

A neighbor said Onowanique "wasn't any bigger than a handbag" the last time she saw her alive.

Ghost of cleaning lady still tidies up!

CELLE, Germany — Bachelor businessman Kurt Escher's cleaning lady died six months ago, but the dead woman's ghost still visits his home twice a week — and leaves it clean as a whistle.

"After Mrs. Troger died, I thought I'd have to hire a new cleaning lady," dumbfounded Escher told reporters. "But her ghost is here bright and early every Tuesday and Friday, just like before."

YOU BE THE JUDGE

If these evil parents are convicted of putting their baby in a blender, what do you think should happen to them?

We'll pass your comments on to the proper authorities.

Fat epidemic sweeping U.S.!

WASHINGTON — A fat epidemic is sweeping the United States — and soon virtually all Americans will be obese, university experts warn.

An estimated 54 percent of Americans are already overweight, a third more than in 1978. What's more, researchers say that today's kids are far fatter than they should be, and will grow up to be even porkier than the current generation of adults.

"The trend will continue — actually, it seems to be getting worse," says University of California obesity researcher James Hill. "The predictions are that we'll all be overweight at some point."

HILLARY'S FACE ON THE NEW DOLLAR COIN?

IF THEY put Hillary's mug on the dollar coin, far left, then they might as well add her tail too, says Ed.

. . . only if they put her BUTT on the flip side!

Heads or TAILS, get it?

I'm madder than Hillary Clinton in a thong bikini over this stupid new dollar coin that's going to have a woman on it.

Remember that dumb Susan B. Anthony dollar coin that bombed back in the 1970s? That only cost the American taxpayers about a trillion bucks.

The thing was the size of a quarter with this big, fat lesbian on it and wouldn't even fit in vending machines, for crying out loud.

INDIAN SQUAW Sacajawea is another candidate for the dollar coin.

Now the liberal eggheads in Washington are gonna try it again. This time the gal on the coin will either be Eleanor Roosevelt (a known lesbian), the face of The Statue of Liberty, Hillary Clinton or — get this, folks — Sacajawea.

She was the bisexual Indian squaw who guided Lewis and Clark across the Pacific Northwest in 1804. Well, whoop-tee-do!

She must have been looking for fresh meat — and I'm not talking about deer and antelope, either. There were two sides to this babe's coin, if you get my drift.

But I'll tell you, I'd rather see Oprah Winfrey on a gol-durned dollar coin than Hillary Clinton. Hell, the only way I'd ever vote for Hillary is if they'd agree to put her butt on the flip side. That way, when we called heads or tails, we'd really be talking heads or tails, folks.

What in the world was wrong with the old Silver Dollar with President Dwight D. Eisenhower's face on it? Now those were the real McCoy, by jiminey. No mistaking those big babies for quarters, and we didn't have some butch broad staring back at us and making us lose our appetite every time we used one to buy some food from a vending machine, either.

Let's face it. If the Founding Fathers had wanted to put a woman's face on money, they'd have done it 200 years ago. But what makes me so pig-biting mad is that only ugly girls are being considered for this new dollar coin. Eleanor Roosevelt's mug looked like a camel's butt. Hillary Clinton has thunder thighs and buck teeth.

She could eat an apple through a picket fence, for crying out loud.

And this Indian gal looks like a buffalo.

If you wanna put a woman on a dollar coin, try Marilyn Monroe. We might as well get our money's worth.

Gourmet peepers selling for $40 apiece!

DOLPHIN EYEBALLS ARE HOT DISH IN JAPAN!

By JOE BERGER / Weekly World News

TOKYO — Moneybags Japanese businessmen are turning up their noses at steak, caviar and sushi — and gobbling dolphin eyeballs by the millions!

Dingbat fat cats are forking over $15 apiece for the boiled, bite-size eyeballs in supermarkets — and up to $40 each in the city's ritziest restaurants.

And daredevil diners swear these delicacies from the deep are worth every penny.

"Some people find it difficult the first time they bite into a dolphin's eye, with the thing looking right back at them," said superchef Shinji Asakura.

"But after one bite, you're hooked.

"There is no steak, no lobster, no caviar or sushi that tastes nearly as good. We began serving dolphin eyes two months ago and people have been beating down our doors for them ever since — even at 25,000 yen ($240) for a plate of six."

Chef Shinji says prices are high because "dolphin eyes are quite rare and so scrumptious that everyone wants them."

But eyeball chompers insist dolphin peepers are more than mouth-watering — that they actually lower your cholesterol and improve your memory.

"Tests have shown that docosahexaeonic acid prevents memory loss and provides many other health benefits," says nutritionist Dr. Naotake Kishi. "And dolphin eyes have more docosahexaeonic acid than anything else in the world."

But even in Japan, not everyone has the stomach for munching eyeballs. And squeamish student Rekiji Kawamura, 21, says there's a good reason eating dolphin eyes improves your memory.

"If I ever had to eat a dolphin's eyeball, I know I'd never forget it," scoffed revolted Rekiji.

Here's looking at you kid: Dolphin eyeballs a Japanese fad

TOKYO — Japanese trendsetters say it lowers blood pressure, clears the skin and eliminates the hideous gray cells. Diehard gourmets say dolphin eyeball is simply scrumptious.

And for a wide variety of exotic fish dishes hot world very recently the average Japanese avoided this particular delicacy.

Then, television began to hype the health benefits of docosahexaeonic (DHA), a substance found in dolphin eyes good for preventing memory loss, cholesterol buildup and other ailments. Film-induced meteorologists said DHA caused a relative abundance behind the retina of dolphin eyes.

They said rats had shown mice injected with DHA extracted from dolphin eyeballs could remember the way through a maze better than [illegible]

BOWLING MIRACLE!

68-year-old housewife rolls four straight 300 games — that's 48 strikes in a row, folks!

For one magical night, Joyce Howser was the greatest bowler in the world — rolling a record-busting four straight 300 games!

That's four consecutive perfect games, a mind-boggling 48 straight strikes in a row.

Not bad for a 68-year-old housewife who averages only 126 and had never scored above 190 even once in her life.

"I've never been so lucky in all my life," Mrs. Howser told reporters the next day. "It seemed like every ball went exactly where I wanted it to."

The remarkable streak surpasses the world record set by a California man who rolled three straight 300s in 1982. Only one other woman ever had two straight 300s.

The miraculous performance took place June 23 in

By SANDRA LEE
Weekly World News

Sydney, Australia, in a women's league Mrs. Howser has been bowling in since 1992.

IT'S A NEW WORLD RECORD

Mrs. Howser rolls a straight ball, as opposed to the hook ball that's favored by most high-scoring pro bowlers. She admitted she gets "pretty excited" anytime she gets three straight strikes.

"Three in a row is a rarity for me," she said. "I think that night was the first time I ever started out with three straight in the first game."

But she didn't stop there. Pretty soon she had six straight strikes.

"I remember my teammate Judy saying I pretty much had a 200 game in the bag," she said. "She's better at adding up scores than I am, so I got really excited."

But she quickly zipped past 200 and zeroed in on a 300 game.

"In the 10th frame I was shaking so bad I could barely hold the ball,' she said. "But when I rolled it, it went right down there for a strike.

"Everyone in the bowling alley was cheering. I thought I was going to cry," she said. "I had never even seen a perfect game."

But Mrs. Howser's amazing streak was just starting.

"Toward the end of the second game, I stopped being nervous and just started having fun," she said. "The strikes started getting a lot easier."

Before she knew it, she had finished her three league games with a perfect score of 900.

"My team had won all three games, so we were all pretty happy," she said. "Then the man who owns the alley told me he'd pay me $20 to bowl one more game. I decided to give it a try."

With everyone cheering her every move, Mrs. Howser quickly finished off her fourth straight perfect game. But she refused an offer to try for another one.

"My feet were getting tired and my ride was ready to leave," she said. "I doubt I could have rolled a fifth straight perfect game anyway.

"But I guess I'll never know."

AMAZING Joyce Howser called it quits before her luck ran out.

KIDS WRITE THE

Incredible letters from boys & girls that will make the angels smile!

By MAGGIE HOLT/Weekly World News

ATLANTA — Kids say the darndest things — especially when they're writing letters to God!

Here's a humorous and often touching sampling of letters from youngsters all over America. They were assembled by child psychologist Marsha Grekato, who is putting the finishing touches on her new book, Why Children Write Letters to God — and What They Want From Him.

God

Dear God:
Were you ever a little boy? If so, who are your mom and dad? I hope you don't mind if I ask these questions, but I wonder a lot. P.S. Have you ever thought about shaving your beard? I think you would look younger if you did.

Thanks,
Colette, 9,
Indianapolis, Ind.

Colette

Dear God,
Do you ever get a tummy ache if you eat too much candy?
Sincerely,
Betsy, 10,
Buffalo, N.Y.

Dear God,
My brother Jimmie died and went to Heaven and I never got to say goodbye.
He has red hair and freckles. Do you ever see him? Tell him I'm sorry I pulled his hair.
Bye for now,
Robert, 11,
Kansas City, Mo.

Robert

Dear God,
How are you? What is your last name? Can I take my dog to Heaven with me? Is there food in Heaven? What kind? Where do you stand when there aren't any clouds in the sky?

Timothy, 7,
Washington, D.C.

Dear God,
People say you are real but sometimes I'm not so sure. You can prove you're real by giving me a sign. A new skateboard would be a good sign. A new video game would be a good sign, too.

Your friend,
Melinda, 8,
Jackson, Miss.

Melinda

Dear God,
I need more brains than the ones you gave me when I was a baby. My big sister says she has a 185 I.Q. If you give me a 195 I.Q., I won't make fun of my sister like she makes fun of me and I'll make all A's in school.

Love,
Terri, 8,
Seattle, Wash.

Mysterious 'puking disease' strikes 823 office workers!

MANILA, Philippines — Three office buildings have been closed after workers mysteriously began throwing up at their desks.

WACKIEST THINGS — TO GOD!

Dear God,
I saw your picture in a book of Bible stories and I think you're very handsome. Are you married or can't you get married because of your religion? Maybe someday I'll see you in Heaven or even here on Earth if I have a miracle.
Love,
Janie, 11,
Dallas, Texas

Jamie

Dear God,
Do you make children go to school in Heaven? Do you make them do homework? What happens if somebody cuts up in class? Do you make them stay after school? If I go to Heaven, can I skip math?
Love,
Crystal, 9,
Morehead City, N.C.

Dear God,
I want to be an astronaut.
Will you let me?
Love,
Carl, 9,
Jacksonville, Fla.

Dear God,
Could you please make a special remote control for our microwave oven? When Mommy is heating up yucky meat loaf I could flick a button and get pie instead.
Love,
Angela, 6,
Rapid City, S.D.

Dear God,
Which came first — the chicken or the egg? If you don't know the answer that's okay. I won't tell anyone.
Love,
Mary, 8,
Columbia, S.C.

Mary

Dear God,
My mommy is very sick, and only you can help her get better, my daddy says. The best birthday present for me would be for Mommy's hair to grow back and for her to get out of bed and walk again.
I don't want any other presents if you just give me that. So that's why I'm writing to you.
Your friend,
Tommy, 9,
Baltimore, Md.

Dear God,
Megan is a stupid idiot. She tells everybody I like girls and I don't. I HATE GIRLS. Please tell her to stop telling lies about me and LEAVE ME ALONE. Give her leaparday (leprosy)!
Love,
John, 9,
Hartford, Conn.

Dear God,
Do you ever walk around in disguise? A friend of mine has an aunt named Jennie and she's nice like you. She takes us to the movies and stuff and never yells at us. Are you the same person?
Love,
Mark, 6,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear God,
My new baby brother doesn't have any teeth. Is he going to get teeth? My mom says he will and I hope he does so he can eat. Please come and finish the baby.
Love,
Tracy, 9,
Birmingham, Ala.

Bobby

Dear God,
The doctor said my grandmaw is going blind and she's real scared. I'll make you a deal. Take my eyes and let my grandmaw keep hers. If you do this for me, I'll pray every day and be real good. I really will.
Bobby, 8,
Memphis, Tenn.

Man pushes radish 211 miles — with his nose!

POONA, India — Hindu mystic Nayir Toot-Bagnar has just completed a yearlong holy mission: Pushing a radish 211 miles from Parbhani to Poona — with his nose! The 64-year-old yogi says he made the long trek on hands and knees to atone for bad karma — sins he committed in another lifetime. The pilgrimage took Nayir one year, seven months and three days.

You're stupid to take pills for headaches, say experts

By KELLY TURNER / Weekly World News

Headaches regularly afflict more than 45 million Americans and are the leading cause of time lost from work. But you'd be an idiot to spend your hard-earned cash on pills to treat the ailment — because you can cure yourself easily without using costly drugs.

Experts say simple relaxation exercises are just as effective in both preventing and stopping headaches. That's because most headaches are caused by an increase in tension that constricts blood flow to the brain, said headache expert Dr. Lisa Scharff.

Here are proven techniques to stop headaches:

- At the first sign of a headache, stop what you're doing and relax. Imagine the sun warming your hands, or cool waters carrying away the fiery heat of your headache.
- Call up images of a place that's tranquil. It could be a seashore, or a field of long grass. "Imagery is much like hypnosis," said Dr. Scharff. "It puts you in a state where you're very comfortable and very focused on something."
- Try deep breathing exercises. Take three or more very slow, very deep breaths, pushing your stomach out and then pulling it in when you exhale. This is instantly relaxing because it brings more oxygen to your muscles quickly.

To help prevent headaches:

- Stretch the neck muscles a few times a day. This is helpful for migraine sufferers.
- Exercise regularly. Workouts reduce stress and promote the manufacture of endorphins, the body's own natural painkillers.

Another good strategy to fight headaches is to avoid triggers that bring them on, said Dr. Lawrence Robbins, co-author of the book Headache Help. "Triggers differ among individuals. They include certain foods like chocolate and alcohol, bright lights, a changing sleep schedule, stress, anxiety and depression. By identifying which factors trigger your headaches and avoiding them, you can learn to relieve and prevent headaches."

GAL'S BUTT RING SETS OFF AIRPORT SECURITY ALARM!

LOS ANGELES — The new "butt ring" fad caused one young plane traveler embarrassment when she had to drop her drawers for airport security guards to prove she wasn't packing a weapon!

The unidentified 16-year-old girl set off the metal detector when she passed through a security checkpoint at Los Angeles International airport. She explained to the officers that she was "into" piercing and was wearing one of the rings, which go through the skin of the buttocks.

The guards didn't believe the passenger and so she had to strip in front of a female officer to prove it.

Hot-to-trot wife wants my lovin' — SIX times a day!

BARRY in Felton.

Dear Dotti: My wife is a real sweet gal and she's smart as a whip to boot. Unfortunately, she has a monster sex drive — and I can't keep up. Now don't get me wrong. I'm a man's man in the lovin' department. But at the age of 30, twice a day is about all I can stand. I've discussed my problem with Melinda but she doesn't understand. And if something doesn't give, I'm sure she'll go looking for a man who can give her the four to six love sessions she thinks she deserves every day. Help! — Barry in Felton

Dear Barry: I don't know where you get YOUR definition of "man's man," but where I come from, a 30-year-old dude who can't get it on more than twice a day needs some serious medical attention — pronto!

Should I kill myself to beat depression?

Dear Dotti: Sometimes I get so depressed I want to kill myself. What should I do? — Blue in Madison

Dear Blue: I'm no psychiatrist but I will say this: You can't go wrong doing what your heart tells you is "right!"

Rich loverboy keeps me hanging — for 17 years

MARIAN in Douglas.

Dear Dotti: I have been living with the same guy for 17 years now, and to my way of thinking, it's high time we got married. He doesn't agree. And whenever I bring up the subject, he shrugs it off and says we can discuss it later. Well, later never comes, of course, and I've just about had it. The problem is, Timothy makes a six-figure salary as a civil engineer and I haven't held a job since I waited on tables as a girl of 18. How can I make him see the light? — Marian in Douglas

Dear Marian: The LAST thing will be exposed for being the shiftless welfare case that he's supported for 17 mind-boggling years. With that in mind, airhead — keep your fat mouth shut!

Should I ask dinner guests to bring their own grub?

Dear Dotti: I've been thinking about throwing a big dinner party for some very influential acquaintances of mine, but I absolutely hate to cook. So I've decided to ask the people I invite to bring a covered dish. My best friend says that I'm just being lazy and a cheapskate, but I'm buying all the beer, wine and liquor, so I don't see what's wrong with asking my guests to chip in a little. What do you think about my brilliant idea — Barbara in Malone

BARBARA in Malone.

Dear Barbara: By all means, send out the invitations. Just don't be shocked when the people who get them R.S.V.P. — by horse-laughing in your stupid face and blackballing you forever!

I've lost respect for the church gal I slept with!

ANDREW in Mayer.

Dear Dotti: Ever since I made love to a girl I go to church with, I've lost all interest in her. For some reason, she's not nearly as attractive to me as she used to be, and frankly, I've lost all respect for her. Is this unusual? If it means anything, I'm 20 and my girlfriend is 18. — Andrew in Mayer

Dear Andrew: Most men lose interest in women after they lure them into the sack. That's why gals should think twice about having sex before marriage. It won't get them anything but dumped!

Women can't get pregnant

you told someone that women can get pregnant off toilet seats! How dare you spread lies like that? Any doctor will tell you that women can't possibly get pregnant that way. Get real. Even better, get serious — and tell your readers the truth for a change! — Dr. Mike in Washington, D.C.

DR. MIKE in Washington.

Dear Dr. Mike: Since you live in Washington, why don't you shuffle your butt down to the Library of Congress and flip through some government statistics. Under "Pregnancies, Unusual" you'll find that 3,600 women get pregnant off toilet seats each and every year. As a doctor, you should have known that. Since you didn't, you're a fool!

CONFIDENTIALS

Dear Anxious Suitor in Easton: Write back when you're Kevin Costner!

Dear Horrified in Ashton: The last man who tried to date-rape me still takes hormones to get an erection. Need I say more?

Dear Fuming in Allegan: I didn't say children should be seen and not heard. I said children should get down on their knees and thank God for their parents every day of their lives!

Dear Disgusted in Hancock: If I saw the gal doing THAT with her cucumbers, I wouldn't eat salads at her house, either!

Dear Stunned in Beacon: I don't care if your mother is 75 or not. If she had 22 "gentlemen callers" in one week, she's hooking!

Dear Angry in Mayfield: I'll go head-to-head with you anytime you like. And to prove I'm a good sport, I'll even let you take off your straitjacket!

Dear Droopy in Portland: Impotence is often a minor psychological problem — but in your case I'm sure it's physical and permanent.

Here's how YOU can write DOTTI PRIMROSE

Send Los Angeles-based Dotti a letter — and let her tell it like it is. Write to Dear Dotti, c/o Weekly World News, 600 East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33464-0002. We'll forward your letters to her.

GIANT ASTEROID MAY SLAM INTO EARTH THIS OCTOBER

Nuclear weapons will NOT be

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS Apr 28, 1998

STUDY: NUKE CAN'T BEAT ASTEROID

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Nudging an Earth-bound asteroid off course or blasting it to bits with a nuclear-tipped missile could be more complicated than scientists — or Hollywood — ever imagined.

In a study published in today's issue of the journal Nature, scientists using ed computer simulations found that have to have good knowledge about the particular asteroid's size, shape and structure to make a difference, he said.

NASA spends $5 million a year for researchers to identify asteroids that are approaching Earth. It expects to spend $1 billion over the next decade mile-wide, peanut-shaped asteroid Castalia discovered in 1989 — to hit by a 50-foot-wide asteroid approaching at 11,000 mph.

In the scenario where they assumed Castalia was solid and shattered

EMERGENCY PLAN that would have sent a nuclear warhead against the asteroid did not work in test simulations, scientists admit.

WASHINGTON — An asteroid the size of Rhode Island is on a collision course with Earth, threatening the lives of every man, woman and child on the planet. And terrifyingly, scientists say it's highly unlikely that anything — including nuclear weapons — can stop it!

But unless we do something to destroy the speeding space rock or alter its course, there's an 87 percent chance that it will slam into Earth at a mind-boggling 134,000 m.p.h. some time in early October — and that as many as 3 billion people will die.

That's the shocking conclusion of a team of worried scientists who've met secretly with President Clinton at least five times since April in a frantic effort to determine what, if anything, can be done to ward off the doomsday asteroid.

The President and other White House officials have remained tight-lipped, hoping to avoid what one source called "a worldwide panic of the first order."

But insiders say Clinton is so worried about the approaching calamity that he has authorized the emergency expenditure of the $3.2 billion that the Pentagon and NASA say they would need for a do-or-die attempt to shoot the asteroid out of the sky with nuclear weapons.

"The trouble is, most scientists now agree that destroying the asteroid or altering its course with nuclear weapons would be a million-to-one longshot, if not totally impossible," said famed astronomer Dr. Robert Cremson, one of seven scientists who've huddled with the President over the past three months.

"Military officials are proceeding with plans to modify land-based nuclear weapons for an assault on the asteroid because at this point, it's the only plan anyone has come up with. But let's face it: If we don't come up with something better — and fast — chances are that life as we know it will be over before Thanksgiving."

If the asteroid does crash into our planet, the impact could shatter a giant section of Earth into a million pieces, sending fragments hurtling into the icy vastness of space, killing billions of us instantly, Dr. Cremson said.

"In the second scenario," the scientist said, "Earth would remain intact. But the impact would kick enough dust and dirt into the atmosphere to block out the sun, plunging us into a devastating deep-freeze similar to the one believed to have killed off the dinosaurs 65 million years ago.

"Either way, we're looking at a disaster of the first magnitude, a disaster that must be prevented — or else."

While the White House, NASA and the U.S. military establishment work feverishly to find a way to stave off the disaster, Dr. Cremson — who discovered the wayward asteroid while examining photos taken by the Hubble Space Telescope in March — offered these tips for surviving the collision.

DR. Robert Cremson

"If you have a bomb shelter left over from the 1960s, use it as the impact date nears," he said.

"Naturally, you should stock the shelter with non-perishable foods and plenty of water well in advance.

"If you do not have a shelter in place, you can outfit a basement or other room in your home for survival. These areas won't be as effective as a bomb shelter because they weren't designed to withstand a nuclear blast, but they will certainly be better than nothing.

"Of course, everyone should stock up on essentials prior to 'D-Day,' " the scientist added. "Gasoline or kerosene heaters will be extremely valuable, as will wood to burn for cooking or heat.

"You've got to use common sense. Just think of all the things you would need to survive in freezing weather for up to a year — then go out and get them."

LOOK before you take a seat in an outhouse.

. . . you just might lose your lunch!

FORT COLLINS, Colo. — Shocked cops here are searching for a sicko with a strong stomach who videotapes women's naked bottoms by climbing into outdoor toilets — and standing chest-deep in a pit of human waste!

By JOE BERGER
Weekly World News

Police say they have no idea how many times the pooper peeper has struck in the last six months, but they say he's still on the loose and could be lurking deep in the bowels of any outhouse at any time.

In the latest incident, an unsuspecting tourist sat down on an outdoor toilet at nearby Horsetooth Mountain Park — then suddenly noticed an eerie, orange glow coming from somewhere down below.

The panic-stricken victim realized there was someone in the pit, videoing her every movement. She screamed and ran from the outhouse.

When the poop-covered creep emerged moments later, the irate lady and several of her friends chased him through the park — but though clad in hip boots, the 200-pound pervert managed to escape his pursuers.

Later, cops accompanied by search dogs failed to find the smelly lecher, whose antics have left lawmen shaking their heads in disbelief.

"I've heard of an individual who tried to commit suicide by diving into a sewage pit, but I've never heard of anyone who's entered a pit and stayed there for any prolonged period of time," said flabbergasted Larimer County Undersheriff John Kammerzell.

And incredibly, the Fort Collins fugitive is the second of these peabrained peepers to make news in less than a week. In Kelowna, B.C., Canada, Guy Martin, 56, pleaded guilty to committing an indecent act after cops found him standing knee-deep in human waste in a women's rest room at Bertram Creek State Park.

"It seems like more and more men are willing to stand all day in human crap just to get a look at some fat woman's behind," said one laughing lawman. "They get out there and do it all weekend, too — kind of the way you and I would play golf."

Most mountain streams in United States are polluted!

Nothing is cleaner and purer than mountain stream water, right?

Wrong!

Scientists say that before 1970, cool, refreshing mountain water from almost any stream in America was safe to drink.

But now, almost all streams are contaminated with an ugly little parasite called giardia that is transmitted by human waste.

Giardia causes violent diarrhea, stomach cramps and ex-

WHAT is your secret message from the Orient this week? It's easy and fun to decipher. Here's the key to decoding your message:

If the number of letters in your first name is 5 or less, subtract that number from 7. If there are more than 5 letters in your first name, subtract the total from 13.

Now take the result and find your key letter in the word ORIENT above. Starting at the upper left corner of the box below, check each one of your key letters as it appears from left to right. The letters below each of your key letters spell out a coded message for you.

FLORIDA MAN BUILDING NEW NOAH'S ARK!

'It'll rain for 40 days and 40 nights'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Devoutly religious Fred Traundberg says he's certain God is going to send another Great Flood — so he's building an ark just like Noah did in the Bible!

The carpenter made national headlines when he started the project back in 1994. At that time, Traundberg claimed the flood was coming in early 1995, but now admits he misinterpreted the Bible.

By CINDY O'NEIL
Weekly World News

"It's a good thing I was wrong about the flood because building the ark was far more of a job that I realized," he said sheepishly. "If I hadn't started in 1994, there'd be no way I could have the ark done by this November, when the flood is really going to hit."

Traundberg said he has consulted with "a few top Bible scholars" who agree with him that another Great Flood is on the way.

"When I made my prediction of the Great Flood coming in 1995, I didn't have a clear understanding and grasp of the Scriptures," he said. "Since then I have consulted with experts who know much more about the Bible than I do — and I've come to the conclusion that the flood will hit on November 16 of this year. And once again it will rain for 40 days and 40 nights."

This time, Traundberg says, he'll have his ark ready.

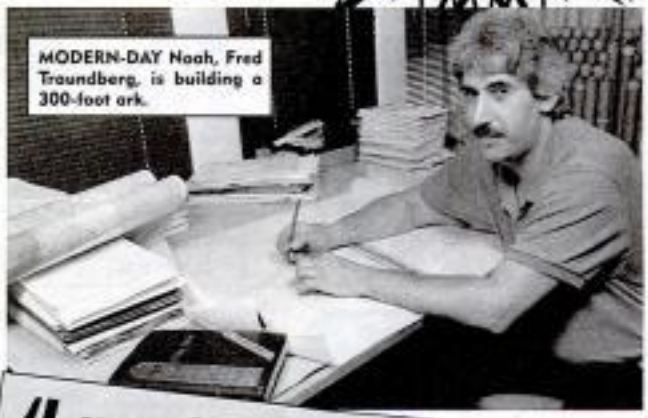
"I've been working on it 10 hours a day, every day of the week," he said. "My family is supporting me on this project. We view this as my mission, the reason I'm here on this Earth."

Traundberg said he has always been an animal lover and he is "100-percent devoted" to saving two of every animal he can.

"Animals that don't make it on the ark will be wiped out by the flood, so it's important that I do what Noah did and get a male and female of every animal," he said.

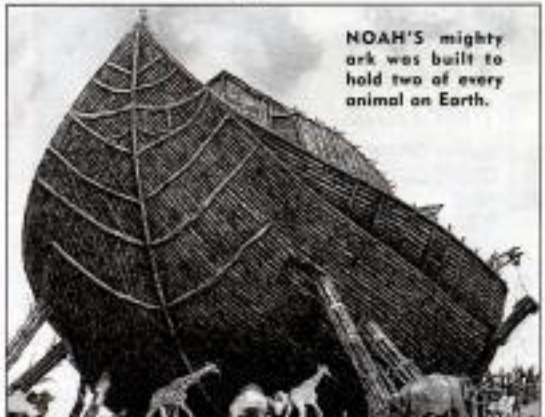
Traundberg has also invited his family members, a few friends and at least one Bible expert to board the ark when the rains start.

"The people and animals on the ark will be responsible for repopulating the planet," he said. "It is a very serious matter but it's one I'm going to be prepared for."



MODERN-DAY Noah, Fred Traundberg, is building a 300-foot ark.

'I want to save all the animals I can . . . just like Noah did in the Bible'



NOAH'S mighty ark was built to hold two of every animal on Earth.

PEOPLE SHOULD EAT MORE LICE, SAYS EXPERT!

KANANGA, Zaire — Noted chimp expert Nestor Graham shocked the scientific world when he announced that chimpanzees thrive on a diet of head and body lice — and that humans would do well to copy them!

The English biologist says his 14 years of chimp studies in Zaire indicate that when the apes groom each other and eat nits and lice, they get a health boost.

"Animals who eat plenty of lice have shinier coats and a calmer disposition," Dr. Graham said. "They are stronger and more physically active.

"I believe humans should take a close look at this. Lice and starvation often go hand in hand in third world countries.

"Perhaps if humans groomed each other and ate lice like the chimps do, they'd be healthier and happier."

Birthday horror!

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand — Nursing home resident Ida Podwell was horribly injured when she leaned over her chocolate birthday cake to blow out the 87 candles — and set her fancy party dress on fire!

The oldster was rushed to a hospital, where she is in serious condition with second- and third-degree burns.

CAVE WOMEN WORE THE PANTS IN PREHISTORIC FAMILIES

. . . says new research!

By KEVIN CREED /Weekly World News

QENA, Egypt — The familiar image of cavemen clubbing their women on the head and dragging them back to the cave is a total myth. In fact, new evidence indicates it was the women who knocked the men around and kept them toeing the line!

That's the surprising word from noted Australian anthropologist Dr. Frederick Maitland, arguably the world's leading expert on Neanderthal man. For more than 20 years, Dr. Maitland has studied fossils, cave drawings and other relics dating from 40,000 to 100,000 years ago.

"All the evidence indicates that Neanderthal man worshiped women," he says. "He was amazed and awed by their seemingly magical ability to bring forth life and sustain it with nourishment from their breasts.

"The cave drawings and crude stone carvings we've examined portray women as veritable goddesses. A man would no more think of knocking her in the head than a devout modern Catholic would think of harming a nun.

"It was the Neanderthal woman, not the man, who found the cave, prepared it and made it livable, then went out to find a mate. And contrary to those silly cartoons we've all seen, it was the woman who did the pursuing.

"When she found a strong, healthy male who looked capable of providing her and her offspring with meat and protecting them from enemies, she brought him back with her — sometimes going so far as to use force.

"A disproportionate number of fossilized male skulls we've found show fractures at the rear of the cranium. These fractures caused us to pay close attention to the drawings. Many of these pictures show women actually clubbing men to make them cooperate.

"Although the men were physically stronger, they would never resist because of their reverence for the female."

Dr. Maitland says that, once the man was "caught," it was the woman who ruled. She made the decisions about how the cave was decorated and often had her mate enlarge it, using stone tools to dig the primitive equivalent of extra rooms out of the hard rock.

"The women were the 'brains' behind the culture," said Dr. Maitland. "They would send the men out to hunt while they gathered together for hours and made plans for the tribe.

"I guess you could call it the primitive form of gossip. But it was very practical and necessary because their woman-to-woman chats were what made the civilization survive."

NEW EVIDENCE indicates it was the women who knocked men around and kept them toeing the line in prehistoric times.

BEHIND-THE-SCENES HORROR

Woman awarded $1.65 million after elephant stomps on her backstage on 'Regis & Kathie Lee' show!

NEW YORK CITY — A woman who was nearly squashed to death by a two-ton circus elephant is 1.65 million dollars richer, thanks to an out-of-court settlement with the beast's trainers.

Russian translator Yelena Aleynikov was backstage at the Live with Regis & Kathie Lee on July 18, 1994. The animal was scheduled to appear on the popular TV show with the Great Moscow Circus.

With no warning at all, the elephant, Flora, rammed Miss Aleynikov into a wall and stomped on her.

She was badly disfigured and hasn't been able to work since.

After negotiations, the circus and Wesser Productions — the agent who booked the elephant — gave Surgeons leave metal clips and gauze in girl — & THE MISTAKE KILLS HER 9 YEARS LATER!

LUCERNE, Switzerland — Surgery saved the life of 11-year-old Laurie Thompson. But complications resulting from that surgery killed her nine years later!

By JACK ALEXANDER
Weekly World News

Doctors mistakenly left four plastic surgical clips — three inches long and a half-inch wide — and gauze inside her body during surgery for a rare bowel disease in 1969.

"The surgical clips blocked her large intestine and caused her death," medical examiner Dr. Hermann Leber said. "The colonel, had suffered severe stomach pains for three days but refused to seek medical help.

"Laurie had been deathly afraid of doctors since that surgery nine years ago," said her grief-stricken fiance, Gerald Baerlocher. "We begged Laurie gauzes while investigating the cause of the blockage. He immediately called police, who photographed the clips and gauze.

Laurie had surgery in two stages nine years ago at a hospital in Wiesbaden, Germany, to combat Hirschsprung's Disease, a rare condition of the lower bowel.

It is believed doctors may have used the clips to stem blood flow during the second operation.

The hospital has promised a full investigation.

gaged to marry Baerlocher in August.

"Her death has been devastating," said her heartbroken fiance. "We had plans for a lifetime together but that will never be.

"I know she was the one for me and I'll never find another woman like her."

Laurie was immensely popular at the bank where she worked.

"Everybody liked Laurie," said Baerlocher. "She was a sincere and honest person with

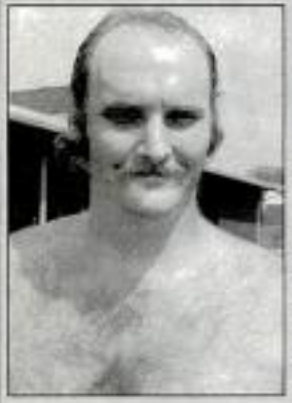
MILLIONS OF AMERICANS WILL WORK NAKED ON NATIONAL NUDIST DAY!



NUDE AND PROUD OF IT: Norman Gruniston wants Americans to strip once a year and relax.

By LISA MERAKIS / Weekly World News

PHOENIX, Ariz. — There's Memorial Day and Groundhog Day and President's Day — and now, thanks to Norman Gruniston, there is National Nudist Day.

The 48-year-old nude sunbathing buff hopes to convince millions of Americans to strip off their clothes this year and relax. He says the back-to-basics celebration, scheduled for Friday August 14, will straighten out many of our social problems and lead to better mental and physical health.

"People might be a little shy just for the first few moments — but once everyone is bare there won't be any shame and everyone will realize how beneficial nudity is," says Gruniston, head of a grassroots nudist group called The Nudity Awareness Association.

"We have lots of studies that show that going around without clothes increases self-esteem, reduces aggressive behavior and brings you closer to other people. We're convinced that if people experience nudism on National Nudity Day, they'll be flocking to nudist camps for the rest of their lives."

Gruniston founded his pro-nudity group back in 1993 after his wife died suddenly of a heart attack. The engineer says his wife had been under constant stress — and he realized she would have been fine if she'd been a nudist like he was.

"While I was peeling off my clothes, she was worrying about her wardrobe," he recalls.

"If only she had joined me at the nudist colony, she'd be alive today."

To help his fellow Americans unwind, Gruniston and his group have dedicated themselves to organizing and publicizing the nation's first special day to get naked.

The nudist says he and his organizers have heard from millions of folks who plan to cooperate in the big event. Together, they have planned a day in which folks will:

☞ Strip down and spend time sunbathing.

☞ Participate in on-the-job nudity with co-workers.

☞ Enjoy nude sports, such as swimming, jogging, water-skiing, archery and bowling.

☞ Party hearty together in the buff.

☞ Take up nude hobbies like stamp collecting, painting, flower arranging and gardening.

"It's an idea that takes a little getting used to, I admit," Gruniston said. "But trust me — once people try it, they'll like it."

FASCINATING FACTS ABOUT THE AVERAGE AMERICAN!

If you're an average American, you will spend a mind-numbing five years of your life waiting on lines, take a total of 25,972 showers and fall in love six times!

Those are some of the fascinating statistics about ordinary people compiled in the book In an Average Lifetime by Tom Heymann.

You can also expect to:

- Have 4,438 orgasms.
- Gobble down 11,113 M&Ms.
- Hog the bathroom for seven years.
- Guzzle down 20,301 bottles of beer
- Laugh a belly-busting 410,078 times.

'Magnet Man' sues hospital!

NARBONNE, France — "Magnet Man" Joel Lattre is suing the municipal hospital here, claiming that a CAT scan he underwent last August destroyed his bizarre ability to attract metal — and ruined his career!

The 34-year-old man has spent 17 years delighting audiences with his human magnet act, in which metal keys, tools and other objects fly through the air and cling to any area of his body.

Since he suffered severe abdominal pain and doctors ordered the sophisticated CAT scan, his body

Teenage witchcraft on the rise!

SAVANNAH, Ga. — Education officials say the problem of witchcraft among high school teens here is growing at an alarming rate.

A shocking 45 percent of high school girls say they engage in witchcraft-related activities "at least once a week," according to a recent survey.

COUNTRY SINGER Conway Twitty.

BULGROO, Australia — A promoter ended up humiliated and in big trouble after selling 5,008 tickets to a Conway Twitty concert — without realizing the country singer had died back in 1993!

"Conway is really big down here but news kind of travels slow in our part of the world," red-faced Kevin Barton said. "I figured for sure if Conway knew how many of his fans wanted to see him here he'd come and do a show for us. I'm very sorry to hear he has passed away."

How to wreck a happy marriage — from A to Z!

Top marriage counselors agree: The surest way to a broken heart and marital breakup is to follow these alphabetical offenses to the letter.

Making one or more of these all-too-typical mistakes is marital suicide.

If you see yourself in any of these sticky situations, better break those bad habits fast — or risk a trip to divorce court.

A IS FOR ADULTERY. Cheating at love causes one in three divorces.

B IS FOR BOOZE. Hang out in bars if you want to live by yourself.

C IS FOR CREDIT CARDS. Landing in debt is a quick way to strain a marriage.

D IS FOR DRUGS. No one wants to stay married to a spaced-out fool.

E IS FOR ENVY. Cast a jealous eye at single pals if you want to add a touch of bitterness to your marriage.

F IS FOR FORGETTING THAT BIRTHDAY OR WEDDING ANNIVERSARY. A well-trodden route to divorce court.

G IS FOR GAMBLING. That's an odds-on favorite to cause a bust-up with your loved one.

H IS YOUR SEPARATE HOBBIES. Golf can slice a couple in two and bowling

I IS FOR IMAGINING THAT YOUR PARTNER IS UP TO NO GOOD. It can be as catastrophic as the real thing.

J IS FOR JOGGING. An early morning cuddle in bed is often better for a marriage than taking off around the block.

K IS FOR KINKY SEX. If it suits you both, fine. But if it's a turnoff for one, prepare for the Big D — Divorce.

L IS FOR LIES. They'll come back to haunt you and pave the way to heartache and acrimony.

M IS FOR MOM-IN-LAW. Surveys show that at least one in every 10 divorced couples blame their in-laws.

N IS FOR NAGGING. A henpecked husband — or wife — is soon on the phone to a lawyer.

O IS FOR OVEREATING. It makes you fat and unattractive. Sleeping with a fat slob puts the freeze on a marriage.

P IS FOR PRANKS. A divorce court heard this year how a wife shaved her husband's eyebrows while he slept.

Q IS FOR QUESTIONS. Where have you been?

R IS FOR REFUSING TO COMPROMISE. Shout each other down and never listen if you're tired of marriage.

S IS FOR SULKING IN SILENCE. Mope — but don't tell your partner why you're upset. The split soon follows.

T IS FOR TAKING HIM OR HER FOR GRANTED. You'll drift apart if you don't whisper, "I love you," often.

U IS FOR UNDERMINING YOUR PARTNER. Don't ever call your husband a wimp or your wife a plain Jane.

V IS FOR VACUUM CLEANING AT THE WRONG TIME. Like when he's in bed nursing a hangover.

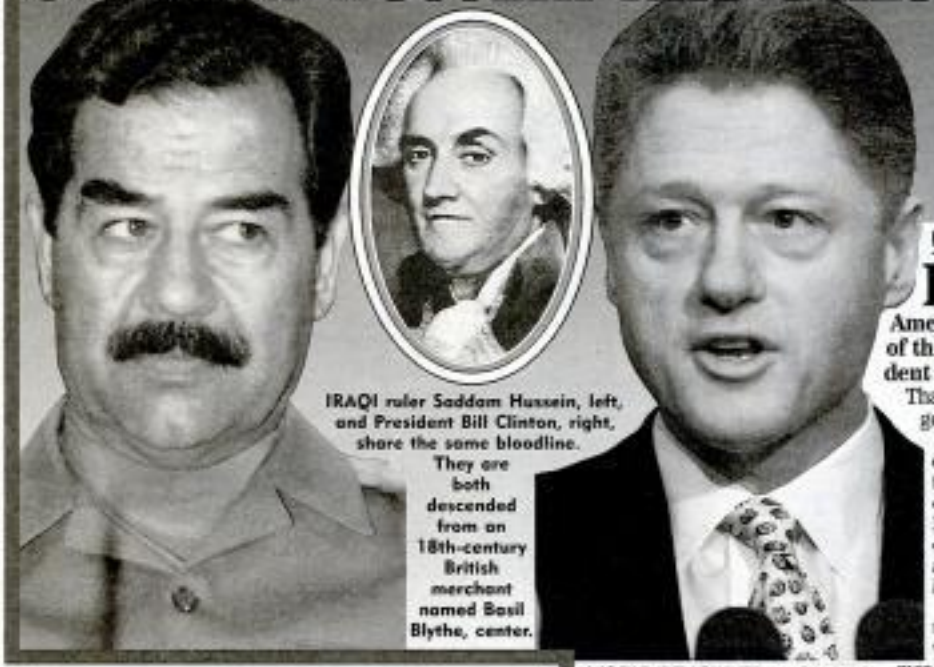
W IS FOR CLUBS FOR WIFE-SWAPPING. Join one if you want to swap marriage for bachelorhood.

X IS FOR XXX-RATED VIDEOS. Tune into these and you may as well fast-forward to a divorce.

Y IS FOR YOUNG LOVE. The less mature you are when you tie the knot, the more likely your marriage is to fail.

Z IS FOR ZZZZZ! If you're

SADDAM HUSSEIN AND PRESIDENT CLINTON ARE DISTANT RELATIVES



IRAQI ruler Saddam Hussein, left, and President Bill Clinton, right, share the same bloodline. They are both descended from an 18th-century British merchant named Basil Blythe, center.

by MIKE FOSTER / Weekly World News

Brutal Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein never misses a chance to express his hatred for America, but he is actually a distant relative of one of this country's most famous citizens — U.S. President Bill Clinton!

That is the startling contention of the renowned British genealogist Dr. Graham Peckwith.

"Based on the evidence I have gathered, there is no doubt in my mind that these two men have a common ancestor," said Dr. Peckwith, who includes the revelation in an upcoming book, Bloodlines of the Famous.

. . . CLAIMS NOTED GENEALOGIST

Dr. Peckwith, who has traced the roots of other world leaders, including former Presidents George Bush, Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter, said that mapping President Clinton's family tree was unusually challenging.

"Mr. Clinton's mother Virginia Kelly was married four times and his biological father William Blythe II was married four times as well," said the expert. "He has scores of living cousins, many of whom he knows nothing about."

Painstakingly poring over crumbling hospital records, baptismal certificates and other sources, Dr. Peckwith was able to establish that Clinton's paternal grandfather, William Blythe I, was the great-great-grandson of an 18th-century British merchant named Basil Blythe, who traveled extensively throughout India, Persia and elsewhere as an agent of the East India Company.

In 1763, he helped to set up an office of the English trading group in the Iraqi city of Basra.

While serving there, Blythe — who already had a wife and child back in England — began an affair with a beautiful courtesan named Harifa Khas, according to a diary kept by the woman, which Dr. Peckwith discovered in fragile condition in an old Baghdad library.

"Harifa's diary states that the brief dalliance produced a female child, who later married and moved away to the town of Tikrit," said Dr. Peckwith.

"Using records in a mosque in Tikrit, I was able to determine that that woman's great-great-grandson was a carpet seller named Muhammed Hussein At-Tikriti."

And, Peckwith says, Muhammed is the great-grandfather of Saddam Hussein, who was born on April 28, 1937.

"Across the Atlantic in Hope, Ark., less than a decade later on Aug. 19, 1946, Bill Clinton was born William Jefferson Blythe III," said the genealogist.

"His father died shortly before his birth and when his widowed mother later remarried Roger Clinton Sr., he took his new dad's last name — becoming William Jefferson Clinton."

Although the White House has issued no public comment on Dr. Peckwith's book, sources say Bill Clinton "got a real chuckle out of it."

'Based on the evidence . . . there is no doubt that these two

Live longer by chewing gum!

People who chew at least five pieces of bubble gum a day are healthier, happier and tend to live longer than those who never chew the stuff.

"We aren't exactly sure why this is the case, but our research reveals people who chew five pieces of bubble gum a day live an average of five years longer and see a doctor about half as much as others," said Dr. Adolph Bergstorm, who conducted the study for a Stockholm, Sweden, insurance company.

Get fit . . . with America's No. 1 mass murderer!

Charlie Manson's new excercise video!

By KEVIN CREED
Weekly World News

CORCORAN, Calif. — Exercise gurus Jane Fonda, Richard Simmons and Susan Powter will soon have some competition from a surprising source: Mass murderer Charles Manson!

Manson has been fighting the legal system for more than two years, trying to get The Total Body Prison Cell Workout, his 45-minute video tape, on the market.

Back in March 1996, Weekly World News broke the story of Manson's attempts to get the tape released. At that time, angry citizens and state authorities were attempting to halt the tape's release.

The video's promoter, fitness expert Fred Zalemond, has had an uphill fight in trying to get around the law forbidding convicts from profiting from their crimes. But he has finally found a loophole in the law and expects to get the tape into stores in time for Christmas.

Zalemond, 34, says he's "disgusted" by his opponents' attempts to stop him.

"All right, Charlie's not a nice guy," he says. "But he's very fit and he has something to share with out-of-shape Americans who have small homes or apartments and can't afford a membership to one of those expensive health clubs.

"Charlie shows you how to turn a tiny, limited space into a giant gym, using a system he developed over more than 30 years of prison experience. I think the tape has tremendous value."

The video, expected to retail for $29.95, features exercises to improve strength, flexibility and aerobic capacity.

Here are some of the moves, as demonstrated by Manson himself and a bevy of attractive women called "The New Family."

THE CREEPY-CRAWLY (For upper-body strength) — Lie on your belly with your feet against one wall. Using only your elbows, move yourself to the far wall, then reverse the motion and move back.

THE HELTER-SKELTER (For cardiovascular fitness) — Stand with legs 10 inches apart. Shift your weight quickly from one foot to the other and shake your head, arms and shoulders vigorously. Man-

THE SOLITARY STRETCH (For flexibility) — Grab onto something solid on the wall — Mason uses the bars of his cell — and slowly "walk" your feet up the specially improvised versions of standard exercises, using things in his cell such as his metal cot, sink and toilet.

"Charlie regrets taking those lives," says

LUCKY TO BE ALIVE: Swimmer Mandy Pickhart.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Avid snorkler Mandy Pickhart faced every woman's worst nightmare when she was dragged underwater by a giant octopus — and sexually molested! The terror-from-the deep ordeal took place as the 25-year-old Miami gift shop owner was on vacation in Australia, exploring the Great Barrier Reef. Miraculously, Mandy survived the brutal assault by the lust-crazed mollusk. Here, in her own words, is her chilling account of the stomach-turning attack:

By Mandy Pickhart

"Oh God, no — this can't be happening," my mind screamed in horror as the enormous octopus groped me in the most intimate parts of my body.

Fighting panic and struggling to hold my breath, I shuddered as slimy tentacles covered with sucker pods slid between my thighs and manhandled my breasts.

My lungs felt as if they were going to explode — but I couldn't escape the powerful arms that held me dozens of feet below the surface. And I began to think that death would be a merciful relief from the sick-been enjoying the vacation of a lifetime. I had spent years saving up for this trip to Australia's Great Barrier Reef and had gleefully jumped off the dive boat to explore the beautiful coral along with a dozen other snorkelers.

The captain had cautioned us to stay away from a particular dark patch of water, but adventurous by nature, I ignored the warning and drifted to the area. Breathing through my snorkle, I looked down in delight at the schools of brilliantly colored tropical fish that swam beneath me.

Suddenly I felt something snake around my right ankle — and before I could signal for help, it yanked me down. I had time to suck in one deep breath before being hauled into the depths.

Twisted around in fear, I looked through the crystalmous octopus hovered there, holding me in its grip with one of its 12-foot arms.

I tried to kick free, to no avail. Worse still, another tentacle, thick as a fire hose, wrapped around my waist. When I tried it pry it off, the octopus grabbed my wrist with yet another arm.

Then the unspeakable happened — using another of its eight tentacles, the creature in disgust, another hand reached up and began to stroke my left bosom.

Waves of nausea and shame swept over me as the enormous beast mauled me. But I couldn't dwell on those feelings — I knew I was in danger of drowning. I struggled and kicked and tried to wrest away the arm at my waist, which held me like a boa constrictor.

around behind me and was feeling up my backside, while the one on my ankle had slithered up my leg and began to nose its way beneath my swimsuit.

I began to pray silently: "Dear God, don't let me be raped by this thing from Hell — I'd rather die."

That's when I realized I had only one chance of escape: I would have to play dead!

The octopus continued to toy with my body for a moment — and it took all my will power to keep still and resist the urge to fight back.

Then, finally growing bored with its lifeless plaything, the octopus released me and jetted away.

I shot toward the surface — and a second later I broke through to the open air, gasping for breath.

Hundreds of skeletons found in White House basement!

ALL the President's bones: A plumber discovered the White House secret.

WASHINGTON — A secret basement has been found in the White House — filled with guns and hundreds of dusty old skeletons!

The shocking discovery was made by a plumber, who was working on water pipes below the White House kitchen.

"There is a service area below the first floor of the White House that is used every day by the Secret Service agents," a government insider revealed. "Electricians and plumbers and other service people do a lot of their work down there.

By FRANK DI PIETRO
Weekly World News

"The plumber who discovered the secret area had gotten lost and went through some doors that probably hadn't been opened in 50 years," he said. "What he found just about scared him out of his wits."

The stunned plumber immediately notified the Secret Service of his startling find.

"The basement now has guards on it 24 hours a day," the source said. "The only people allowed down there are government experts who are desperate to figure this mystery out."

One expert said the guns indicate the people went into the basement during the late 1850s or early 1860s. But no one has been able to determine who all the dead people are and how they got into the White House basement.

"One theory is that these people voluntarily went into the basement during a time of emergency — possibly during the Civil War. That might explain why they had guns with them. But then you have to wonder why they all died down there.

"I understand there was evidence that one or two of the men had been shot but there's nothing to indicate there was a full-blown shootout. It appears most of the people died of starvation.

"Surely when the people went in the room someone knew they were down there," the source said. "So you have to ask why they were left down there to die."

The source confirmed that President Clinton has received several reports about the skeletons.

"He wants to stay on top of exactly what's down there and frankly I can't blame him. How would you feel if someone found a bunch of skeletons in the basement of your house?"

PEOPLE WITH HEMORRHOIDS ARE THE LUCKIEST GAMBLERS!

By RICK TRACY / Weekly World News

An amazing new study of Las Vegas gamblers reveals that big winners at slots, blackjack and poker all have one thing in common — a wicked case of hemorrhoids!

"If high-stakes gamblers often have pained expressions on their faces, now we know why," sociologist Dr. Albert Hartley said.

Dr. Hartley and his colleagues surveyed thousands of Vegas regulars to determine how their gambling habits relate to their physical and mental health and a variety of other sociological factors.

Dr. Albert Hartley.

"We found that elderly women are the luckiest slot players, middle-age to elderly men win the most at poker and women in the 30-45 age group most often beat the house at blackjack," he said.

"And amazingly, a high percentage of those in all three groups suffer from hemorrhoids — possibly because they spend long hours sitting."

High rollers who shoot craps at Vegas casinos have no increased chance of hemorrhoid misery, but 82 percent admit that standing at the crap tables for hours on end has left them with back problems and sore feet.

Researchers found that most women 50 and older plop down in front of a $1 slot machine the minute they arrive in Vegas and camp there hour after hour, day after day. "These women often hit the jackpot several times in a single day — and they usually reach for the hemorrhoid medication before retiring at night," Dr. Hartley said.

He said winning poker and blackjack players are often reluc-

For the week of July 27

ARIES
Mar. 21 – Apr. 19

The solution to a nagging problem will hit you this week. Jot down the insight. If you forget, you'll be stuck with that pain once more.

Gloomy pals tend to ruin what could be a happy time. Be positive and cheerful. Your good mood could save the day.

Stay humble. Blowing your own horn at this time could wreck coming good fortune.

TAURUS
Apr. 20 – May 20

Friends and strangers will seek you out more often than normal this week. Don't get bigheaded over any increased popularity.

Your first impressions of people are likely to be right on the money. Don't be swayed by talk. Stick to your gut feelings.

Overeating could dampen your weekend by making you feel sluggish and sleepy.

GEMINI
May 21 – June 20

Something your mom or dad told you years ago may be worth remembering this week. Keep your cool and don't be influenced by people who don't have your best interests in mind.

You are capable of doing many worthwhile things in life. But are you trying hard enough?

This may be the week to add a bit of thrift to your daily routine. Watch your spending.

CANCER
June 21 – July 22

You're a sucker for a sob story. People know your weaknesses and may take advantage of you this week. Be on guard.

A friend or relative may give more meaning to your life this week. A past kindness has not been forgotten.

All signs point toward a change in your lifestyle this week. Keep your options open — there may be an opportunity you won't want to miss.

LEO
July 23 – Aug. 22

Put your thinking cap on this week. The solution to someone else's problem could be a money-maker for both of you. There's loot waiting, but nobody's going to drop it in your lap.

Childishness could cause problems with a person in authority. This is not a good time to sulk or make unreasonable demands.

Good things come in large packages this week.

VIRGO
Aug. 23 – Sept. 22

Let the good times roll! This is a good week to whoop it up with family and friends. You can have a ball without acting irresponsibly, so let your hair down and let 'er rip!

Being helpful puts you on good terms with a stranger who could make a dream come true. Be alert enough to recognize a subtle offer.

A dream holds special meaning for you and your family.

LIBRA
Sept. 23 – Oct. 22

Your usual clear thinking may be muddled this week. Best to put off major decisions until a later date.

Easy does it! You may have an accident later in the week, but with caution, you can avoid it. Look after your diet, so you'll feel in tip-top shape.

A lonely person may try to make friends. Be kind — you might be surprised at the depth and rewards of this relationship.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23 – Nov. 21

Light and sunshine will flood your life this week. No matter what your burdens, they will be easier to bear.

This good feeling will spill over to your work and love life, giving you a great seven days to look forward to.

Remember, though, you must keep a positive outlook so in trying times your attitude will give you the strength to carry on. This is a good week to plan for the future.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22 – Dec. 21

Rein in any impulse to do more than you can handle this week. Keep your life moving at an easy pace and spend as much time as possible tending to your own needs.

Touch base with loved ones and close friends. They may be in need of your wisdom and farsightedness.

Reserve the weekend to release any pent-up need to be creative.

Strive to be happy.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 – Jan. 19

There's a chance you've been confiding too much to too many, and it could come back to haunt you. Let the people around you figure out what's going on themselves!

Your health may worry you this week but don't let it bother you. You're fit as a fiddle — and a late week surge of energy will prove it.

Lighten your workload and enjoy some of the fun you've been missing.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 – Feb. 18

Don't allow the petty gripes of others to put a damper on your efforts to move toward your goals this week.

Your ability to come up with new ideas mustn't be stifled.

Keep in tune with events happening around you so you can take on any problems which may crop up.

A few fun-filled hours with a friend or someone special will do wonders for your self-esteem.

PISCES
Feb. 19 – Mar. 20

You've been going like ganbusters and it's time to slow down. Relax this week and spend some time alone.

This is not a good time to travel. Short trips to work or the grocery store are fine. If at all possible, venture no further than the edge of town.

Dreams figure prominently. Pay close attention to those that put you in a bad light. Your subconscious is trying to tell you something.

If your birthday is this week...

Reexamine carefully any long-range plans to be sure they reflect the way you feel about things now.

You'll find a loving relationship if you're open with others. You can look forward to many pleasant experiences with family and friends.

The fall may see difficulties with job or finances, but they'll smooth out.

ANCIENT PROPHECY FORETOLD A SUMMER

WEIRD WEATHER FRIGHTENS BIBLE EXPERTS

The Earth is literally "burning up," experiencing the highest average global temperatures in history. And religious experts are convinced that this summer's record heat, freak lightning storms and killer tornadoes are signs that world is about to experience a cataclysmic event of biblical proportions — perhaps even the Apocalypse!

Much of Florida has been declared a disaster area, with more than 230,000 acres scorched by blazes.

quakes, wars and other crises, odd weather would be a sign that Judgement Day is near.

"Heat, specifically, is mentioned time and time again in the Bible," said Rev. Bernel.

He points to Deuteronomy 28:22, which states: "The Lord shall smite thee with a consumption, and with a fever and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning . . . and shall pursue thee until thou perish."

James 1:11 warns, "For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof falleth."

Lamentations 5:10 also describes a heat wave, stating, "Our skin is hot as an oven."

Another verse warns of a terrible drought, points out Rev. Bernel. Haggai 1:11 reads, "And I called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the new wine, and upon the oil, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon cattle, and upon all the labor of the hands."

Yet another verse paints an even more grim version of a scorched Hell on Earth.

Jeremiah 51:43 reads, "Her cities are a desolation, a dry land, and a wilderness, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doth any son of man pass thereby."

The fact that massive flooding is taking place in parts of the country this summer offers little hope of relief from the hellish heat and drought, the Bible scholar warns.

"Fiery heat and deluges are not really contradictory — in fact they are spoken of togther in the Bible," says Rev. Bernel. "In Daniel 7:10, the prophet has a vision in which he sees a river of fire.

"There is every indication that the killing heat we are seeing is a sign that Satan, through his agent the Anti-Christ is about to take power. That means Our Lord will soon be coming to Earth to combat Lucifer in the Battle of Armageddon — the final war between Good and Evil.

"People must use this time to get right with the Lord before the end comes."

National Weather Service forecasters have been reluctant to release all of their predictions about this summer's weather, for fear of sparking nationwide panic. But a source says that according to an unreleased report, this is what is in store for the nation over the next two months:

• A furnace-like heat wave will scorch the Southeast, with temperatures peaking at 115 degrees.

The heat will cost billions in crop damage and record demand for air-conditioning could cause power blackouts that paralyze the region.

• The Northeast will reel under blistering heat and humidity. Stagnant air will lead to severe pollution problems, potentially resulting in thousands of deaths from respiratory distress, particularly among children. Expect temperature readings up to 125 degrees.

• Violent killer tornadoes will plague the Midwest, whipping across the region in unheard of numbers. Entire towns "may simply vanish from the face of the Earth," says the Weather Service source. There will also be pounding rainstorms that cause flooding, leaving thousands homeless inlow-lying areas.

• The West and Southwest will take the brunt of the heat wave, suffering under sweltering temperatures of 130 degrees. This will likely wipe out thousands of livestock unaccustomed to the abnormal conditions.

• The West Coast is due to experience temperatures as high as 110 degrees. It will also be jolted by vicious electrical storms that spark intense fires. These infernos may become so widespread that it will be necessary to totally evacuate certain cities in California, including Los Angeles.
